PARIS, Dec. 8.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The Associated Press. correspondent has been making in quiries among a number of importers concerning their participation in the Chicago World's Fair. Ernest Tourdelet, member of the Paris Chamber of Commerce, said that though the McKinley bill discouraged them greatly they could not abdicate from their hold on could not abdicate from their hold on the American markets, and that leading French exporters would make every effort to present excellent exhibits.

A prominent Marseilles wool exporter, M. Hanerwein, said the principal manufacturers there did not yet show much interest in the undertaking, but this feeling may change. Another Marseilles exporter said that their Chamber of Commerce had been requested by the French government to endeavor to attract exhibitors, and has done so, but up to the present no demand for space has been registered. To is probably might change.

A firm of Lyons sik exporters said there is little enthusiasm there, but some manufacturers have signified their intention of participating. The slowness is attributed to the effects of the American tariff. A firm of upholstery manufacturers at Boubaif said the tariff had so interrupted their trade that there is no encarragement to undergot the evision of the contracturers and the registered.

manufacturers at Boubaif said the tarift had so interrupted their trade that there is no encouragement to undergo the expense necessary to prepare an exhibit. They are convinced, they said, that the manufacturers of North France will generally abstain from exhibiting. Similar expressions as to the lack of advantage to French manufacturers and merchants in making exhibits at the Chicago Exposition were made by many other exporters and manufacturers.

FRANCE'S NAVAL STRENGTH. Minister of Marine Barbey Thinks She is Invincible. Paris, Dec. 8.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] In the debate on the naval estimates in the Deputies today Barbey, Minister of Marine, said that building ships for the navy had contin-ued with unabated activity and within ten years eighty-one ships would be built, including six ironclads and fifty built, Including six ironclads and fifty swift cruisers. Next year the navy would have over 200 torpedo boats. France, he said, was the only nation that had solved the problem of submarine navigation and would soon possess a submarine navy that would give results as yet unattained. New quickfiring guns with effectiveness superior to anything ever before achieved had also been added to the armaments of the republic. In view of the extent of the preparations and readiness for war France ought to feel secure.

The speech was received with enthusiastic applause.

By Telegraph to The Times. WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The excited feelings so apparent throughout the speakership contest had no part in the proceedings in the House today. When Mr. McMil-lin appeared many members who had not been with him in the fight rushed not been with him in the light rushed ap to shake hands and tell him he made a good stand against the inevitable. Mr. Springer had on his coat lapel a bright scarlet pink which had been the emblem of his campaign, and having cast his vote and influence to Mr. Crisp, cast his vote and influence to Mr. Crisp, he was in high favor with the victors. When nominations for Speaker were made this morning that of Mr. Reed was the only one greeted with applause. Jerry Simpson, acting for the Farmers' Alliance party, nominated Mr. Watson of Georgia, and a smile spread over the House. When Judge Holman placed Mr. Crisp in nomination the Democrats reserved their applause for the moment when he should be declared elected and escorted into the House. But at the name of Mr. Reed the eighty three Republicans made all the noise consistent with their numbers, and their votes were cast in peculiarly loud voices to show that they were there. During roll call Mr. Mills stood back behind the rail on the Democratic side. and when his name was called voted with his usual depth of voice and earnestness of manner. Messrs. Hoar and Williams of Massachusetts, who were Mr. Mills's most active workers, did not vote. The silence on the Demo-cratic side remained unbroken while the cratic side remained unbroken while the tellers counted the vote—Crisp, 238; Reed, 83; Watson. 8. THE TUG-OF-WAR.

Second Night of the International Contest.

The Pavilion Again Crowded from Top to Bottom.

The Spanish Team Defeat the Germans After a Game Fight.

The Police Pulled Off Their Feet in Just Thirty Seconds by the Americans -The French Beaten by

The attendance at Hazard's Pavilion last night for the second evening of the international tug-of-war under the management of the Los Angeles Athletic Club was fully as large as on the opening night and the excitement was

The first tug was between the Spanish and the German teams. Notwithstand-ing the fact that the Spanish pulled one hour and twenty-six minutes the night before they showed up smiling after making a little kick against being pitted against one of the favorite teams. It was believed by everyone that the Germans would walk away with the Spanish in less than thirty minutes, and when two hours and eight minutes had been pulled and the victory was given to the Spanish team a change came over all and Spanish stock went up several points. The policemen were vindicated all along the line, for everybody could see that the police had their hands full on the opening night and should not have been blamed for losing the tug at the expiration of one hour and twenty-six minutes.

The success of last night's pull insures crowded houses during the rest of the week and gives the Athletic Club a H. Gehrkens, Fred Tabbert and Charles Knobloch. The team weighed 1836 pounds.

The Spanish team put in an appearance at 8:34, and looked quite fresh, considering that they had made such a long pull on the opening night. They made several mild kicks on the ground that they should not have been pitted against the Germans after pulling an hour and, twenty-six minutes on the first night, but when it was explained to them that the drawing was square and they had to take the chances with the other teams they quieted down.

There were no changes in this team and it is made up as follows: Childs. captain; Aguilar, anchor; and Compuzano, Garcia, Rico, Bustamante, Asumigo, Arvallo Lizalda and Ybarra. The team weighed just before time was called 1889 peurls. OS ANGELES SAVINGS BANK, 136

Both teams took their places on the tug platform at 8:36, and the word to pull was given by Referee Thayer at

The German team made a bold effort to take the rope as soon as the referee's "go" pistol was fired, and carried four inches, but the Spanish held on like grim death and in five minutes the Spanish had taken back two inches. The second tug was between the American and police teams without any changes, and both teams showed up in changes, and both teams showed up in fine shape. After watching the wonderful pull between the Spanish and German teams the police gained confidence in themselves, and they were perfectly justified in gaining courage, for the Spanish veam proved a holy terror, and convinced everyboby in the hall that none of the teams had any advantage over them. There were no changes in the arrangement of either team. They took their places on the tug platform at 11 o'clock and the pull pistol was fired at 11:08. The Americans took the rope at the flash of the referee's pistol, and in just thirty-one seconds the referee had to fire his pistol again, giving the victory to the Americans amidst the greatest confusion. It was not a pull in the true sense of the word, for the Americans simply got up and walked away with the police, who could not realize what was going on. It is the shortest pull on record.

THE THIRD TOO The third tug was between the French and Irish, two of the losing teams on the opening night. In the last two tugs both the Spanish and Germans in the first and the Americans in the sec-ond tugs won on the opening night, but the French and Irish had no records to go, on, although a deep interest was taken in the contest, as it could be seen that both teams had decided to do their best.

The teams took their places on the tug platform at 11:15, and the pistol was fired at 11:18, and the contest was won by the Irish, in two minutes.

The various teams were not drawn last night, as there was so much kicking, last night, and the teams will not know how they are to pull until this evening.

The President's Message.

The message of the President to Congress will reach this office at 7 o'clock this morning over the wires of the Western Union Telegraph Company, to whose courtesy THE TIMES is indebted for early transmission. The document is estimated to make about 15,000 words, or between nine and ten columns in THE TIMES, and it will be printed in full in a second edition, to be issued at an early hour this forenoon.

THERE is a constantly increasing de mand for the Encyclopedia and Gazetteer and the dictionary offered by THE Times as premiums. Both are useful books and they may be had "dirt cheap."

A COMMERCIAL letter from St. Louis has this note: "The only novelty in the fruit line was the arrival of fresh strawberries from Los Angeles, Cal. The berries were in good order and sold at 40 cents per quart."

THE most disappointed burglars we have heard of are some who worked half the night recently on a big safe at Galesburg, Ill., and after blowing it open found to their disgust that it was not only empty but had not been

LAND BILL ALLEN, about whose destitute dircumstances we had a note some time ago, is dead. He was the father of the homestead system. Paraphrasing the couplet on Homer, an Ohio paper says: "Columbus claims Land Bill Allen dead, through which Land Bill Allen living begged his bread."

A CORRESPONDENT points out an indefensible practice on the part of the electric and cable railways. If there is any law or proper authority for discriminating in favor of street-car passengers traveling in a particular direction THE TIMES would like to know it, and will publish the chapter, section, paragraph and clause con muc

A STRANGE phenomenon was observ able in the southern sky about sunset last Monday evening. A thin rift of white cloud spanned the horizon in the form of a complete rainbow. As the rays of the setting sun struck the cloud it was tinged with crimson and became ery beautiful. Speaker Crisp.

If the election of Crisp as Speaker of the House has any significance as to party policy, it foreshadows a conservative tendency on the part of the Democrats in tinkering with the tariff. It is a notable fact that Democratic newspapers and politicians who used to openly advocate free trade have lately nced to hedge, and they now talk of nothing more violent than "tariff reform." Even Mr. Mills of Texas comes in this category. Mr. Crisp in his little speech acknowledging the compliment from his party protested his loyalty to this principle of tariff reform, which is a convenient designation for anything or nothing that the party may deter mine upon hereafter. It may be tariff for revenue only, or it may be tariff as it stands now, with a mere pretense of modification. The Immigration Convention, The meeting yesterday of the South-ern California Immigration Convention, a report of which appears in another column, may be productive of the most beneficial results to this section. THE Times earnestly hopes that such may be the case. The recent meeting in Sar Francisco for the purpose of forming State immigration association was a failure. The State is too large and its interests too manifold and varying to give such an effort much chance of success. The southern counties are more closely affiliated-their interests are more in common—and better re-sults may be expected from a united movement on their part. The great desideratum is that they shall all pull together for the general good In this respect the dictum of the apostle holds good: "In things essential unity; in things doubtful, liberty; in all things, charity." The first and main point is to get desirable settlers to Southern California. After that it will be time enough for us to fight among ourselves over them and rend their and

THE Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune says that the effort to remove the body of Gen. Grant from Riverside to Arlington National Ceme tery will be renewed at the present se sion of Congress. Ever since the fail ure of the attempt in the last Congress the friends of the removal have been quietly but actively and zealously at Some of the objections then vork raised have been overcome, and considerable confidence is expressed that the attempt this winter will be crowned with success. And the advocates of removal are not disposed to halt there; they maintain that all the great military chieftains and leaders of the Union armies-Sherman, Thomas, Meade, Mc-Clellan, McPherson, Logan and all the rest-should, like Sheridan, be laid be neath the towering oaks and green sod of Arlington within view of the capital of the Nation which they did so much to save and perpetuate.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—In attempting the dramatization of a popular novel the playwright, even though he be the author of the original work, is put to a disadvantage. His readers have formed their own ideas of the different characters, and are apt to be disappointed if the stage presentations do not realize their previously conceived ideal. Add to which is the dimetalty, of giving the succession of incidents that, while they read fluently enough in the book, may be almost impracticable on the stage. The adaptation of Mr. Potter of Taxon, presented last night, is not entirely so coherent as it might be made for the benefit of those who have had no previous acquaintance out to the westward in some practicable way is a proposition which cannot be disputed. The business interests of the center of the city and the convenience of the large number of people living on the western hills demand it. Nothing who have had no previous acquaintance with the story. The first act, plunging as it does into the middle of the action, and sustained entirely by a mosaic of short sentences uttered by people whom the aiddence has not had an opportunity of knowing, is a poor piece of dramatic work, but the play gets vastly better as it goes along, and, aided by the excellent acting of Joseph Wheelock and Jeffreys Lewis, who diyide the honors about equally, it evoked a considerable and sustained display of enthusiasm on the part of the crowded audience. Mr. Wheelock's personation of the title character is full of force and nervous energy. He carefully avoids the obvious temptation to overact, and manages, without entirely suppressing the most offensive characteristics of "Mr. Potter." to subdue them with an eye to general artistic effect. The rough pathos of some of his scenes also told well upon the audience. Jeffreys Lewis beamed effugently, looking as handsome as ever, and costumed in a style that in richness and taste was well calculated to set off her physical charms. She threw herself into an ungrateful part with all her old abandon, and fairly earned the applause she received. Her rendering of the character of "Lady Sarah Aunerly" was melodramatic, to be sure, but it was thoroughly in keeping with the piece and therefore not open to objection on that account.

The rest of the cast was fairly, satisfactory, more especially Mr. Alken as "Baron Lincoln," and Edgar Norton as a New York Anglomaniac, the latter a clever sketch without the exaggeration that often marks similar personations on the stage. Frang Reinau figured in the play-bill, but was conspicuous by his absence. His part was a good "Lubbins." May Halues was sweet and pretty as the recipient of the somewhat tame affection of Maurice Drew, and Miss Lamar, whose fate as "Miss Potter" caused her to be united to young Mr. Wheelock, is hardly to be congratulated, as yet, upon her fortune. The English accent of the detective was apparently genuine, but the part was somew as it might be made for the benefit of those who have had no previous acquaintance with the story. The first act, plunging a it does into the middle of the action, and part of town cannot expand beyond the narrow neck in which it is now confined, the center of trade will shift further down, where it can expand. Today when the inquest was about finished Kraatz betrayed nervousness Inished Kraatz betrayed nervousness upon being questioned about his financial relations with Mrs. Leggenhager, as well as his movements at the time of her death. The probable method of the murder was brought to light by the discovery of a robe in the room where the bodies lay, and it is believed mother and son were smothered to death. Kraatz is the husband of the dead woman's step-daughter. The police are investigating the whereabouts of his two brothers, neither of whom have his two brothers, neither of whom have the most enviable record.

The express companies are losing anywhere from $5000 to $50,000 a week on a simple and well understood plan of train robbery, and as they do not take any precautions to stop it the public can stand it as well as they. It is true they employ a large force of detectives so-called, who "get on the track," but they rarely do more than lock up a suspect or two in order to make a showing. It would seem that when the plan of action is so well known it should be easy and less costly to defeat it by placing guards on the weak place, which is the locomotive. Certainly the plan of shutting the door after the horse is stolen and putting detectives "on the track" has proved a duarts of the seed. It sprouted and thrived well under the cultivation given it. The ears came well and have now been harvested. They are about six inches long, and the grains, which are small, being about one-fourth the size of the ordinary corn, are close to gether, standing up with sharp points.

Mercer thinks that this must be the original corn of this country from which the present Indian corn has sprung through long and high cultivation. What is remarkable about it is that the mound from which it was taken is undoubtedly very old, for on it are growing trees that show by their rings that they are over 200 years old. The relics found with the corn are similar to those found in the mounds of Ohio and Illinois and this mound must be coëxistent with those, which are thought to be over a thousand years

Y.M.C.A. PARLOR READING.

The reception-room at the Y.M.C.A. building was inadequate to accommodate the crowd of ladies and gentlemen that gathered last evening to enjoy an evening with Holmes, as portrayed by Prof. G. C. Hough, principal of the Woodbury Business College. Prof. Hough's sketch of the man who was great not only as a poet, but as a novelist, a lecturer, an essayist and a physician as well. was interspersed by readings from his works, given in the pleasing style which has won for Prof. Hough the reputation he enjoys as a finished elocutionist. He passed from grave to gay in his impersonations. giving, among others, "My Sunday grave to gay in his impersonations, giving, among others, "My Sunday Breeches" and "The Living Temple," which is so beautifully rhymed as to be a poetical gem as well as a little lesson in physiology. Delighted applause, bursting spontaneously from the listeners, occasionally interrupted the speaker momentarily. He closed the entertainment with Holmes' "How the Cold, Horse Won the Bet," and then the crowd dispersed and went home satisfied that they had enjoyed a profitable as well as a pleasant evening. These parlor readings promise to be very popular. Miss Howison gives the next, and the life and works of James Whitcomb Riley, the poet whose tender comb Riley, the poet whose tender pathos, expressed in homeliest vernacular, has won for him fame and favor will be the topic. ODD FELLOWS' ENTERTAINMENT.

Grand Master J. N. E. Wilson and brand Secretary W. B. Lyon, of the Grand Secretary W. B. Lyon of the order of Odd Fellows, are making a tour of the State on official business, and last night suffered under an embarrassment of riches in the way of three entertainments, to al' of which they were invited. The early part of the evening the grand officers spent at the rooms of the new lodge just organized with ninety-nine members, last Saturday, at No. 234 South Main street. Later they went over to East Los Angeles, where went over to East Los Angeles, where they were entertained by the lodge there, and shortly before 10 o'clock arrived at No. 108 North Spring street to take in the final festivities of Arbor Vitte Hebecca Degree Lodge, where a ball was in progress. A particular feaball was in progress. A particular fea-ture of this entertainment was the patches on the wearing apparel of the participants. No one was admitted without three visible patches, and some of the gentlemen made a grotesque appearance—the knees of their trousers and elbows of their sleeves being gav with bright-colored patches. The six-teen dance numbers printed on the manilla-paper programmes were all merrily danced, from the "Patch Newport" to the "Corn Cracker Schottische." The music was exceptionally good and in fact all the details of the entertainment were well worked out by the various committees.

On Friday, at 8 p.m., a reception will be tendered the visiting officials, at which delegations from all the Rebecca on Friday, at s p.m., a reception will be tendered the visiting officials, at which delegations from all the Rebecca degree lodges of Southern California will be present. The same evening the four subordinate lodges of the city will tender a reception to the grand master and grand secretary. This evening the State officials will visit the lodge at San Fernando.

TROTTING RECORDS,

A prominent horse paper of San Francisco on November 8, 1891, published a list of those trotters that have records better tean 2:15. In the list given only seventeen are omitted, a large number when they give the list as twenty, and when they give the list as twenty, and there are thirty-seven that are known, and perhaps more. It is a matter of surprise that so prominent a horse paper as the Breeder and Sportsman should omit such horses as McKinney, 2:12½, Alcazar, 2:12½, and many others. Below is given a list that comes very near being the correct one:

CHOBAL SOCIETY NOTES.
A largely attended and successful rehearsal of the Choral Society was held on Mon-sal of the Choral Society was held on Mon day avening. Owing to the departure from town of Mr. Bremner, the society's presi-dent, it was decided that Vice-President J. dent, it was decided that Vice-President J. D. Graham should serve as acting president during Mr. Brëmner's unexpired term. In view of the large seating capacity of the Presbyterian Church, where the concert will be given next week, it was decided to depart from the society's original intention of limiting the attendance to the active and honorary members and such friends as might be favored with complimentaries. Accordingly a limited number of tickets will be sold to outsiders enough to comfortably fill the auditorium after the member's complimentary seats have been disposed of.

ber's complimentary seats have been disposed of.

The entire cantata of "The Holy City" was sung Monday night. The soloists acquitted themselves with credit and the chorus proved strong and well disciplined throughout. It is safe to predict that the initial concert of this season will prove one has ever taken place in Pasadena. The mammoth pipe organ of the Presbyterian Church will be retuned especially for this event.

MODEST, BUT PROGRESSIVE.

MODEST, BUT PROGRESSIVE.

Pasadena and Chicago are alike modest and progressive. The latter city is to have a new university and this is how the work began, according to a recent issue of the form the most meritorious musical events that Chicago Herald: "The quiet, methodical and modest way in which Chicago does the biggest business in the United States was never better illustrated than on yesterday, when ground was broken for the new university. The only ceremony was the hitching of the horses to the plow, and the only speech was made by the driver, Edward Collins, who said: 'Git up!' " was made by the driver, Edward Collins, who said: 'Gft up!'

Pasadena has a new university in full operation. Father Throop set the ball arolling by donating $200,000 of his wealth to the carrying out of the project, and when all was in readiness the institution's opening was signalized only by an informal and unpretentious reception to Pasadenians. Since that time there has been no bluster, no brag, but the university is going on just the same and is progressing steadily, until some flay it will be classed among the leading institutions of learning in the land.

MATTERS PURELY ATHLETIC.

[THE TIMES conveys news to Santa Bar-bara twenty-four hours ahead of the San Francisco papers. The branch office and agency is at No. 713 State street, where ad-vertisements, orders for the paper, and news items may be left.]

The dedication of the new building of the Cottage Hospital Association took place yesterday afternoon at the building at the Oak Park tract. Itwas expected that Hon. Rowland Hazard and Rev. Philip H. Thacher would deliver addresses, but both were ill and unable to attend. Rev. C. T. Weitzel read a chapter from the scriptures and Rev. A. H. Carner offered prayer. The various pastors and others made remarks. The music was furnished by a well-trained sextette, under the direction of Mrs. George F. Wright. The sextette consisted of Mrs. George F. Wright, Mrs. E. S. Sheffield, Mrs. H. P. Butler, Mrs. C. W. Rasey, Mrs. J. H. Austin and Mrs. J. H. Burson.

After the ceremonies a large number of donations were received, consisting mostly donations were received, consisting mostly of furnishings for the rooms. The building was swarmed yesterday with visitors. The Times correspondent was shown over the building by Mrs. W. H. Woodbridge, a member of the board of directors. Upon the first foor is the reception room, parlor, office, etc., besides sevral rooms for patients. In the rear of the building, on this floor, is the kitchen, completely furnished, pantries, dining-room, closets, store-room and nurses' kitchen. The second floor is occupied by two large wards, an operating room, trunk and storeroom, and ten large rooms for patients; also a bath-room and several closets. Upon the last floor is a large room which will probably be used as the children's ward, nine other rooms, store-room and bath-room.

The site of the building is a slight elevation in the Oak Park tract, a short distance from the end of the Bath street car line. From the numerous verandas is an excellent view of the ocean, mountains and city. The place is exceptionally healthful, made so by the sheltered position it occupies.

The idea of a cottage hospital originated three years ago with Mrs. Harriett Colder, and Mrs. H. K. Winchester, through whose influence several other ladies became interested, and the result was the incorporation of the Santa Barbara Cottage Hospital Association upon April 16, 1888. The object was to "establish a home for the sick; an institution to be conducted on liberal principles, where skilled physicians, trained nursing, home comforts and help ject was to "establish a home for the sick; an institution to be conducted on liberal principles, where skilled physicians, trained nursing, home comforts and help where help is needed will be offered to all, regardless of nativity or creed."

The first money raised was from donations by Mrs. Mary A. Assley and a lady from New York, followed by others. With this money the lot was purchased, and as other funds came the foundation was laid and the building was finally completed a few weeks ago. Among the donors who have ably assisted the ladies were Mrs. Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Winchester. Hon. Rowland Hazard and daughter, Miss Blake, the late Abby S. A. White, the late N. P. Austin and several others. The fund was increased by quite a sum raised at a carnival held about two years ago.

But to the ladies of this city is due the credit of the establishment of this institution. It was through their untiring energies that the Cottage Hospital was planned.

THE MOONEY CASE.

Statement of A. B. Hotchkiss, Esq., Correcting a Misapprehension.

Los ANGELES, Dec. 7.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Knowing that you do not desire to do anyone injustice I wish to correct some statements that appeared in your issue of yesterday, in an article entitled "An Old Tragedy Revived." The "quiet road" that Mooney and his wife were said to have been riding on was

"An Old Tragedy Revived."

The "quietroad" that Mooney and his wife were said to have been riding on was the road traveled regularly between Santa Monica and Los Angeles. At the time of the occurrence Mooney and his wife were on their way to Los Angeles to attend an entertainment, for which Mrs. Mooney was in full dress. The manner in which the accident occurred is stated with substantial correctness. Before the occurrence, however, the parties had stopped at the house of Mr. Wren, a reputable neighbor who lived a short distance from the Mooney mansion toward Los Angeles, and informed Mr. Wren that they were on their way to Los Angeles to attend an entertainment. He said he was coming along to Los Angeles with his team in a very few minutes after that, which he did, and met Mrs. Mooney after the accident had occurred, doing her best to hold her husband up in the carriage and guide the team, returning to her home. No effort was made to hush up the matter. Mr. Wren, the neighbor, was on the jury of inquest, and all the testimony justified the verdict.

Whether a brother of the dead man has arrived in Los Angeles city or not is not known certainly to Mrs. Mooney, for he has not called upon her. Whether he has secured the old buggy in which his brother met his death or not is not known certainly to the fact that the pistol in falling from the hand of Mooney, who had started to take it out of his pistol pocket behind, where it was annoying him to hand it back to his wife, with the remark, "Take care of this, Mollie," at the time when she was stooping over to arrange the lap robe over her dress to keep off the dust, the pistol fell from his hand, caused by a sudden jolt of the wagon in a rut in the road, struck on the railing of the seat behind honey (his wife being seated in the seat behind him.) and made a dent on that railing and was discharged. The testimony of the physician, Dr. Folsom, showing that the ball entered Mooney's left side and back just below the shoulder-blade, ranging downward to the heart, showed of the physician, Dr. Folsom, showing that the ball entered Mooney's left side and back just below the shoulder-blade, ranging downward to the heart, showed that it would have been an utter impossibility for the wound to have been inflicted by Mrs. Mooney in the position she then occupied: and absolutely improbable that the pistol could have been fired by her from the left hand, she sitting in the scat behind him.

As a friend of 'Mrs. Mooney's I called upon the Distriet Attorney this morning to inquire whether anything had been said to him by anyone tending to bring this matter of the death of Mooney before the grand jury. The District Attorney replied that no one had called upon him, and that he did not consider that there was any evidence in the case requiring the same to be submitted to the grand jury.

In regard to the property said to have been possessed by Mooney at the time of his death; and, further, that no property had been deeded by Mooney to his wife for several years before his death, I know that Mooney head no property at the time of his death; and, further, that no property had been deeded by Mooney to his wife for several years before his death. When Mooney became first acquainted with Mrs. Mooney she was a Mrs. Drury, along back in 1874, and had a separate estate of her own amounting to several thousand dollars. She had formed an uncongenial marriage with Drury, and had left him, and was waiting here to get a divorce from him. An attachment sprang up between her and Mr. Mooney, and it was agreed that they would be married as soon as she obtained her divorce from Drury and this was done. In the meantime, Mrs. Mooney, having faith in Lo. Angeles, employed Mooney to purchase a piece of land at the corner of Main and Jefferson streets, which she still owns, and where they lived for some time. An opportunity offering to buy the property on Spring street, which she still owns, and where they lived for some time. An opportunity offering to buy the property on Spring street, which she now owns, she mo

Mooney and his wife were tenderly and devotedly attached to each other, and if Mooney and nis wire were tenderly and evotedly attached to each other, and if they had any spats they were of a very trivial nature: but I know that the statement that they had a quarrel on the morning of his death is not true.

Last Wednesday, while Mrs. Mooney was sick in bed at Santa Monica, a letter purporting to be written by an attorney in Los Angeles, claiming to be the attorney for John C. Mooney, a brother of the deceased, was brought to her at her bedside by a boy, who said it was given to him by an unknown man near the house with instructions to take it to her. This letter is the letter called a "letter of invitation" in the article in your paper: but it is in fact a letter of threats, intimating that Mrs. Mooney had been guilty of crime, causing the death of her husband, secreting his property and concealing the fact of his death; and intimating to her that John C. Mooney was about to take action in the matter, but would deter the same for a few death: and intimating to her that John C. Mooney was about to take action in the matter, but would deter the same for a few days if she desired in the meantime to communicate with the said attorney as to a settlement. Mrs. Mooney immediately handed this letter to her attorney, and with indignation and scorn declined to treat with any person approaching her in the manner indicated. By her attorney she has demanded of the District Attorney to be permitted to go before the grand jury and has demanded of the District Attorney to be permitted to go before the grand jury and show this letter to it, and also that a full investigation be made of all these insinuations which have been thrown out against her, in order that they may be forever settled and buried.

I hope you will publish this statement in justice to her. She is very ready to come into court, either civil or criminal, and respond to any legal complaint. There are into coart, either civil or criminal, and respond to any legal complaint. There are some features about this matter which carry to her mind the idea of conspiracy to wrong her, and there is a third person in this city, outside of John C. Mooney and his attorney, who bears bitter hatred toward her because of the rejection of his amatory proposals, and who has threatened before this occurrence to make her trouble. When the rence to make her trouble. When the grand jury shall take hold of this matter the name of this party will be given and the whole business will be ventilated.

Very respectfully yours,
A. B. HOTCHKISS.

More About That Santa Fe-Santa Monica Deal.

Minor Stockholders Who Want to Know You Know-Contracting for a Few Tunnels-Local

The truth of the article published in THE TIMES yesterday, about a deal between the Santa Fé and the Santa Monica Wharf and Terminal Company, is denied by General Manager Wade, of the Southern California road. As Mr. Wade was said to be one of the active parties in this deal, and should know all about it, his emphatic denial throws some mystery over the reported transaction and puts some embarrassment upon the reporter. This embarrassment, however, arises more from a dis-inclination to reiterate the original statement, despite the denial, than from a confession of error. Mr. Wade says that such a deal has been talked of for two years, and may be for ten years more, and is now no nearer a close than it has and is now no nearer a close than it has ever been; but information emanating from the Santa Monica parties is to the effect that a crisis in the affairs of the enterprise made an early settlement imperative. As for the Santa Fé's intentions, after acquiring the property, no authoritative information was at hand, but as far as it related to the transfer of control of the Santa Monica Wharf and Terminal Company the article was based on what was considered excellent authority. Its publication yesterday authority. Its publication yesterday resulted in bringing to this city a number of Santa Monica citizens, who are stockholders in the wharf company, who held a long discussion with General Manager Wade in his private office.

They came to seek information.

It appears that the two factions in that company look with some suspicion upon each other, and a transfer of a maority of the stock without the knowledge of a majority of the stockholders is not only possible but probable. Mr. Wade's statement that the publication was premature implies a required ratification by the board of directors, and this, according to The Times informant, is all that is precessary to close the deal. is all that is necessary to close the deal. TRAINMEN AND TRAMPS. The Southern Pacific, like the other roads leading to Southern California, is lined with tramps, whose faces are turned toward this inviting climate, and trainmen have tussles with them every day. The fellows often travel in "angs formidable enough to overpower a ordinary train crew in case of a light, but whether singly, in pairs or squads they are persistent and troublesome. Every train coming out of Yuma has a complement of this class of passengers stowed away of this class of passengers stowed away between or within box-cars or even on the trucks beneath, and their real troubles oftentimes do not begin until they arrive at Banning, where minions of the law usually grab them and put them through a trial in a petty court. Then the poor devils usually have a similar experience at Beaumont, and if they had any money originally their fines have exhausted their treasury before they reach Colton. In fact, the fore they reach Colton. In fact, the constables at Colton have such slim picking on the tramps that they are sometimes in sore straits. This was proven the other night when one of them arrested Yardmaster Toohey and a brakeman while pursuing their labors as Southern Pacific employés and started to lock them up as tramps. The mistake was discovered before serious damage was done, but it shows how zealous are the law's representatives to bar California's gates to the vagrant brood.

A Press dispatch from San Francisco says that the Pacific Improvement Company will begin work about January 15 on the tunnels in the first five miles of the Coast division in the gap south of Marguerita. The company has called for bids for the construction of the two tunnels, one 3600 and the other 1400 feet long. Bids for the remaining 125 miles of the road from Santa Marguerita to Elwood will be santa Marguerita to Elwood will be called for hereafter. This means that the Southern Pacific Company will fulfill its agreement with the people of San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara counties to build the line as soon as practicable after the citizens shall have se cured rights-of-way.

There is a revolution affoat that hreatens to play hob with the peccant nen who frequent saloon bars and with the white-aproned men behind the bar, says the New York Mail and Express. ncidentially it will doubtless cause the wives of tipplers to do a little playing hob on their own accounts. But there is another side to it, as there is to most questions. The English barmaid is unique. Her duties are to draw ale, measure threepennyorths and sixpenn'orths of whisky, gin and rum. She attains her highest art when she puts a lump of sugar and some hot water and gin in a glass and calls the product "gin 'ot, sir."

Then she wears flowers and ipowders her face, and smiles and chaffs the "Johnnies" in the bar parlor. And this is all that is asked of her.

For another thing, she lives in the house like the cook and housemaid, and there is a sensible safeguard in this arrangement.

Take her all in all, and the barmaid

Take her all in all, and the barmaid on her native heath is a well-known person of a certain age with a smile for every one and a right arm strong from working the beer-pump.

A Cedar-street publican tried the plan with disastrous results. He lost $10,-000 over it. Then a Broadway publican tried it. He hired a half-dozen American women and put them in white aprons behind the bar. And this time the result was disastrous to the customer. Peccant men who drank cocktails and sours went in and said:

"Gimme Manhattan!"

"What did you say?" she asked.

"Manhattan."

"Manhattan. I, yes—one beer!"

"Manhattan. I, yes—one beer!"
"Manhattan cocktail, if you please,"
the man said firmly.
Then she laughed and snickered, and

"M-a-n-oh! of course it is under cocktails." Then she found the recipe

Gen. O'Beirne was informed today that the coming of the foreign maids is a violation of the contract-labor law. He assigned Inspector Conklin to "receive" and "entertain" Miss Taylor and the others on arrival. the others on arrival.

The Coast Line. [San Francisco Examiner,]
The completion of the arrangments for right of way for closing the gap on the coast railway is announced. The railroad company will now begin building, and within a year it is expected to have the new line opened to Los Angeles. The work is one of such importance that it is surprising that it should have been left to this day. The line will shorten the run to Los Angeles by fifty to 100 miles, and will offer a much more pleasing route to travelers than [San Francisco Examiner,] fifty to 100 miles, and will offer a much more pleasing route to travelers than that down the San Joaquin valley. It will, moreover, open up a large area of fertile country that is now difficult to reach and is almost cut off from markets. San Luis Obispo is the only considerable town on that line that is not now connected with the outside world by rail, but several of them require the traveler to go almost double distance to reach San Francisco. The new line will be an accommodation to the coast, and it is to be hoped that its construction will be pushed as rapidly as possible. as possible.

The Druggists

In Lowell, Mass., agree in saying that they sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of all other blood purifiers. For instance:

F. C. Goodale: I sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than all other blood purifiers.

A. W. Dows & Co.: Hood's takes the lead of all

C. F. BLANCHARD: We sell more of Hood's Sar-aparilla than of any similar. MARSTON & SHAW: With us the sale of Hood's 9 to 1 of any other kind. F. & E. BAILEY & Co.: Hood's Sarsaparilla to one of the best medicines.

CARLTON & HOVEY: Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the best medicines we have. Its sale increases every year.

F. P. Moody: We sell twice as much of Hoyd's

Sarsaparilla as of anything similar.

C. A. Swan: Hood's is the most popular sarsa parilla of the day.

THERY OTHER druggists speak similarly. This popularity at home, where Hood's Sarsa-parilla and its proprietors have been known for many years, could not continue if the medicine did not possess merit. And these facts should certainly convince people in other sections of the country that Hord's Sarsaparilla is a good, reliable medicine.

healer of sickness and all diseases.

For a long time I have been suffering with bladder and kidney troubles. No doctoring or medicines seemed to do me good. I consulted the best physicians and surgeons in Los Angeles city. They gave me morphine and drugs, but no relief could I obtain. After suffering great pain and having my passage almost entirely clogged. I fourteen days ago began using Dr. Woh's medicines. Today I am perfectly well. I do consider Dr. Woh the most successful physician in Southern California.

Dr. Woh was recommended to me by a friend. I had been troubled for years with indigestion, causing fearful headaches and vertigo, making my life one of misery. I tried and paid the best physicians without relief. Finally, to please my friend, I visited Dr. Woh at his office and he advised with me and gave me medicines. This was but six weeks ago. Today I can gladly and sincerely say that he has entirely cared me. CHARLES HEILMAN, April 3d, 1891. 331 Court st. L. A. Cal.

NOWING ones predict that lemons are the coming crop. So as to be in the swim and in position to catch the wind when it comes, secure some of the East Whittier tract and put it out in lemons and when others are reaping rich rewards in the lemon I ne you'll be with them on the flood tide to fortune. Experts have pronounced the East Whittier Tract especially adapted to this crop. Rich deep soil, warm south and southeast frontage, with the Puente Hills on the no th and northeast; practically frostless, one can raise all kinds of vegetables and small fruits the year round between the rows while the trees are growing. The lemon trees begin bearing the third year We don't ask you to take our word for it, but come and examine. We can show you 3-year Eureka lemon trees loaded with finest fruit; orange trees not yet 3 years out with more than a box of fine navels now hanging on a single tree. If such results can be shown with no water, what may be expected with plenty of fine soft water?

No Sage Brush, Stones, or Cactus to clear away.

PECIAL excursion to Gila Bend, Arizona, Tuesday, December 8th, 1891.

The Gila Bend Reservoir and Irrigation Company of Arizona have 250,000 acres of government land under their canal system, subject to entry under the Homestead or Desert Land Laws, which can be secured at $13.75 per acre, including a perpetual water right of 1 inch to 3 acres. These lands are adapted to raising citrus fruits as well as all other products common to a semi-tropic climate. The Special Committee of the United States Senate report No. 928, part I, May 5th, 1890, page 60, after seeing Southern California and all the arid and irrigible regions, say of the Gila Valley lands:

"Within our border there cannot be found a soil so uniformly fertile and so capable of varied production under irrigation as that of the valleys of the Gila, Salt and Sanfa Cruz Rivers in Southern and Central Arizona; analysis of this soil shows its fertile qualities to be superior to that of the Nile earth."

Over 4000 acres of these Gila Valley lands have just been taken up by a colony of Riverside fruit growers, which is sufficient evidence of its superiority.

The trial of the case of A. J. Falder against O. H. Kiefer, a suit to recover damages in the sum of $30,000, for an alleged false imprisonment on March 30 last, was resumed before Judge Van Dyke and a jury in Department Four

The first witness called was Frank B. Fanning, Chief Deputy in the County Clerk's office, who was briefly examined

The plaintiff, A. J. Falder, was then recalled for further examination, and he was followed by Wells Hendershott Esq., an attorney-at-law, who testified to the effect that on Sunday, March 30. to the effect that on Sunday, March 30.

The defense moved the Court to strike this testimony out on the ground that it was incompetent, etc., and that it had not been shown that the defendat had not been shown that the detendant was present. Reed were called and examined as to certain papers relating to the case which could not be found, and the plaintiff then rested.

Detendant's counsel. T. B. Brown Esq., moved the Court for a judgment of non-suit, on the ground that there was no evidence to support the allegations of plaintiff's complaint, but at the close of the argument, during which the jury was excluded, the Court denied the motion.

The matter then went over until this

THE COHN CONTEST The cross-examination of Mrs. Delphina Varelas de Cohn, the contestant in the Bernard Cohn estate case, was resumed before Judge Clark yesterday morning, and was still in progress when court adjourned for the day. S. M. White, Esq., counsel for the heirs, followed the witness with a relentless pertinactly, entirely foreign to his usual method of procedure, and it was evident that he was determined not to allow any feeling of sympathy for the woman before him to interfere with his sense of duty toward his clients. Delphina was examined on almost every every part of her testimony by the sumed before Judge Clark vesterday every part of her testimony by the shrewd attorney, who jumped from one thing to another, and back again, with astonishing celerity, in order to catch the witness napping. There were no sensational developments, however, and it is understood that Delphina's cross-camination will be concluded this examination will be concluded this morning, and further testimony introduced for the contestants.

HAD TO CHANGE COURTROOMS. In Department Three yesterday the trial of the case of H. C. Wheeler against the Placerita Mining, Milling and Water Company, a suit to determine conflicting claims to a mining claim in the San Fernando district, was resumed before Judge Wade and a jury, and occupied their attention all day. Several of the jurors having made a vignorus protest against the maledores. orous protest against the malodorous atmosphere of the courtroom in the Murietta building, an adjournment was made to the Courthouse during the aft-ernoon session, and Judge Wade, in the absence of Judge Smith, took possession of the courtroom of Department One

On reconvening at that hour Attorney Stephens continued his address to the jury, closing at 2:10 o'clock, when Judge Shaw ordered an adjournment until this morning at 10 o'clock.

THE AH TET PERJURY CASE. In Department Six yesterday the trial of the Ah Tet perjury case was resumed before Judge McKinley and a jury. F. M. Guthrie. Esq., closed the argument for the defendant with a forcible address to the jury, which consumed the whole of the morning session, and Deputy District Attorney Phibos replied during the afternoon session, the matter being finally submitted to the jury at 4:25 o'clock.

AN INTERESTING DECISION Judge Clark rendered his decision in the matter of the contest over the estate of Christian V. Hass, deceased, ordering a decree in accordance with ordering a decree in accordance with the following pithy opinion filed therein yesterday:

There is a contest arising on an account rendered by the executor of said estate. The deceased at the time of his death was the guardian of the estate of his daughter, Elia V. Hass, appointed as such by the Probate Court of Cook county, Illinois. He died in this county and James F. Mooney was appointed the executor of his will and was also appointed guardian of the estate of said minor.

was also appointed guardian of the estate of said minor.

Certain property consisting of money and the tools and materials used by decedent in his business as cooper came into the possession of said Mooney, for which he has failed to account for as executor, claiming in good faith that said, property belongs to the estate of said minor, and not to the estate of decedent, and that it is in his possession as guardian and not as executor. The evidence shows that decedent was indebted to said minor in some sum, but does not show that this property was a part of the ward's estate, and the only question is whether the court has jurisdiction to order the executor to charge himself therewith.

parte Ousey (71 Cal., 207.) ex p rte Hallis (59 Cal., 400) and Gardner vs. Gilliman (27 Pac. Rep., 220.) These cases do not. I think, support the position assumed. The principle there settled is that title to property cannot be determined in contempt proceedings; that where one has property in his possession which he claims by title adverse to an estate in custosita legis, the Qourt cannot by a summary proceeding determine that the property belongs to such estate, and order that it be turned over and punish said adverse claimant for contempt upon his failure to do so. The title to such property can be determined only by proper suit instituted for that purpose. It does not follow, however, that the Court, sitting as a Court of Probate, where evidence is introduced showing that an executor has property in his possession belonging to the estate for which he has failed to account, has not the power to order that he be charged therewith. Such order does not adjudicate title, but fixes the liability of the executor, and this liability he can escape from only by showing that the property has been taken from his possession or the title thereto adjudged to be out of the estate by a propertribunal in a proceeding instituted for that purpose. He cannot, by simply asserting that he does not hold the property as executor, oust the Probate Court of such unisdiction.

INFORMATION FOR INVALIDS.

A Plan by Which Victims of Consumption may be Benefited. Dr. T. C. Duncan, president of the American Health Resort Association of Chicago, who is in the city, says that the necessity for more reliable infor-mation by the medical profession on the question of climate, especially for consumptives, was fully impressed upon him as never before on this visit to the He had conversed with invalids on his way and was surprised to learn that leading physicans of Boston, New York, Chicago and other points had recommended patients at this season of recommended patients at this season of the year to points not at all adapted to their various conditions. For example, a consumptive from Boston was sent to St. Paul; a New York man with tuber-culosis was sent to San Francisco; a consumptive from Tacoma was headed for Colorado Springs—an evident misfit all around. He thought that this section of California, especially back from the coast a little was a good point for invalids and had advised these various parties to try it, and then if they did not improve to push on to New Mexico —which, in the opinion of those who had carefully investigated the subject was the best section on the continent for consumptives.

Dr. Duncan remarked that the profession was very desirous of unbiased information and his association would do much in the next few years in assist-ing the medical profession in getting their invalids into the right climate and to the resorts adapted to their various cases.

Dr. Roberts, he said, who was representing the American Health Resort Association in New England, reported a very hearty welcome by both profession and people, even Mr. Blaine expressing interest in the work, and well he might. The mortality in Maine, for example, among the young people from tuberculosis is appalling, amounting, it is said, to fully 50 per cent. of all the deaths. While the American Health Resort Association was advisory merely they were nrged to devise some way to transfer some of these people from the New England coast to more salubrious surroundings, so that the mortality would be lessened and the people and State be a gainer. The rich can get away, but the poor must be assisted.

Dr. Duncan believed that if those people in this section who have been benefited by exlinate would maite and colventions. IMMIGRATION.

Important Meeting at the Chamber of Commerce.

Six Southern Counties of California to Co-operate.

Permanent Organization Formed and Officers Appointed.

Assist-Report of the Executive Committee - Dan Freeman Elected President.

The Southern California Immigration Convention met yesterday morning in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, in pursuance of a call issued by a committee appointed by the chamber a month ago.

Notice had been sent to the Boards of Supervisors of the six southern counties asking them to cooperate with the various Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of their respective sections in the appointment of delegates.

The ratio of apportionment of delegates was as follows: In each county, one for each 5000 inhabitants, and one additional where excess over multiples of 5000 equals 1250. This makes a total forty-one delegates.

This convention was called with a view of establishing a permanent Immi-gration Bureau. The matter has been under discussion for some time in the press of Southern California. The Immigration Convention recently held in city of San Francisco appears to have brought no important results, and the view generally expressed by the newspapers of Southern California is that the State is too large and its in-terests too diversified to admit of one organization covering the entire terri-

This call was promulgated, and re-ceived the signatures of a large num-ber of citizens of all sections of Southber of citizens of all sections of Southern California. The secretary of this movement recently appeared before the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commèrce, and stated that if the matter should be taken up in earnest by this organization the Oceanside people would give way and join their efforts with those of the people of Los Angeles. The offer was accepted, and the two andertakings are now moulded into one. The delegates who recently took part in the State Immigration Convention in

This leaves the southern portion of the State no choice but to begin operations on its own account if anything in this line is to be accomplished. The object aimed at by the projectors of the present convention was to devise some plan whereby the immigration work of the various sections of Southern California may be simplified and strengthened by the establishment of a central bureau, which shall put forth its efforts in behalf of the entire southern part of the State. The convention organized by the appointment of S. Levi of San Diego as chairman and C. D. Willard of the Chamber of Commerce as secretary.

On calling the roll of delegates it was found that, while the representatives of the outside counties were here with scarcely an exception, only two Los Angeles delegates were present. A motion was put and voted down to adjourn for fifteen minutes to allow the journ for fifteen minutes to allow the Los Angeles men to arrive. Dan Freeman said that while in the East he had found much desire to learn everything about Southern California. Mr. Manvel had found the same thing

Mr. Manvel had found the same thing and partly at his suggestion the call had been issued. It was proposed to form a sort of annex to the chamber and among other things do some advertising in Eastern newspapers.

Subscriptions might also be obtained from wealthy people who are interested, or, perhaps, assistance might be got from men who want to sell land, a charge being made for advertising land, assurance first being had that the deassurance first being had that the de-scription of the land was correct. Each scription of the land was correct. Each county might also issue pamphlets and let a local board supervise them.

H. P. McKoon of San Diego thought the matter should be more centralized, and only one pamphlet issued. In this manner each section would be sure that it would get a fair show. The general and indisputed facts in regard to the entire section would be given. A pamphlet devoted to the whole of Southern California would carry more weight ern California would carry more weight than one confined to a particular sec-tion. The pamphlet should be indorsed by the Board of Immigration. Dr. Jarvis of Riverside agreed with the last speaker. J. P. Jones thought it was a question whether it would be better to publish a short advertisement or adopt some other method. He was strongly in favor of using a paster to affix to papers and letters. Goudge thought an estimate ought to be made of the number of peo-ple who would be reached by the papers.

J. P. Jones doubted whether an appropriation could be got from the Boards of Supervisors. He had had some experience in that line. He thought, however, that many people having lands for sale would be glad to pay for registering their lands with the bureau. Such a plan ought to furnish sufficient funds to carry on the work.

Mr. McKoon thought the first thing.

Mr. McKoon thought the first thing was to agree upon a permanent organization. Then very much of the detail should be left to the members of that body. He moved that the convention proceed to organize. The motion was carried.

The following members were appointed to represent the various counties as a committee on permanent organization: Los Angeles, Dan Freeman: San Diego, H. P. McKoon; Executive Committee Meeting. The Executive Committee Meeting.

John Wasson spoke in regard to the suggested advertising in the country regions. He thought it would be a good method of calling the attention of Eastern farmers to Southern California. The pasters might be good also.

Dan Freeman said the Santa Fé company would gladly distribute printed matter through their 200 agents.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

On reconvening at 2 o'clock the committee reported, offering the following

Resolvèd, That a permanent organization be formed to be known as the Southern California Bureau of Information, for the purpose of compiling, editing and distributing authentic and impartial information concerning Southern California.

Resolved, That such organization consist of forty-two members, apportioned among the six counties of Southern California as follows: Los Angeles 22, San Bernardino 5, Orange 3, San Diego 7, Ventura 2 and Santa Barbara 3.

Resolved, That from such members there be selected an executive committee consisting of one from each county, which shall have full power and control of all matters pertaining to the purposes of the organization.

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors of each county be requested to appoint the members of the advisory board.

Resolved, That the office of the organization be in the city of Los Angeles.

Rev. T. W. Haskins suggested that the word "immigration" should be in-troduced unless the committee had some

Dr. Hurley of San Bernardino said the matter had been canvassed by the committee, and they had come to the conclusion that the word had better be omitted. The word immigration had been much misused. A delegate thought that it would be better to insert the word "immigration" as the Board of Supervisors were allowed to expend $1000 a year for purposes of immigration, but might object to do so for an "information"

To test the question Mr. Haskins put it in the form of a motion, to add "and immigration," after the word informa-

Mr. Buchanan doubted the advisability of ocalling those who come from one State to another "immigrants." The name of immigrant has an odium attached to it at present, and would have more in the near future. The county was overrun with an undesirable class of immigrants from Europe. Mr. McKoon said the question had Mr. McRoon said the question had come before the committee of whether it would not be better for this meeting to resolve itself into a permanent organization until others were appointed, in order to ease time. in order to save time.

Dan Freeman observed that the season was already late and that no time ought to be lost. He thought a perma-nent organization ought to be formed at once.

Mr. McKoon put a resolution to the effect that the present convention be the permanent organization, to hold until their successors are appointed by the Boards of Supervisors.

A. B. Minor of Colton said the San Bernardino delegates were not author-ized to go so far as to enter into a per-manent organization.

Mr. McKoon said it would be only a temporary move. The Boards of Super-visors would undoubtedly, to some ex-tent, change the membership of the or-panization.

Dr. Hurley said, as far as he was concerned, he had been picked up on the spur of the moment, and would rather the matter go over.

By request the secretary then read the call, showing why the convention was called—to establish a permanent

Mr. Wells, of the Board of Trade,

Mr. Middlecon said this convention was composed of representative men and few changes would be necessary. There was no need for further delay. Other delegates deprecated delay. Dr. Jarvis thought the instructions of the San Bernardino delegation should not hamper the other delegations in forming a permanent organization. forming a permanent organization.

The question as to permanent organization was then put and unanimously McKoon moved that the mem-

A recess of five minutes was then taken to enable the counties to select their men. The following were selected: Los Angeles, Dan Freeman; San Bernardino, Dr. J. M. Hurley; San Diego, Hosmer P. McKoon; Ventura, George M. Smith; Santa Barbara, G. C. Welch; Orange, M. J. Bundy.

On motion, the convention confirmed the names of the committee.

Mr. Wells urged that the convention should be kept intact. There was much more work than the executive members of the counties could attend to. Dr. Hurley said the executive mem

Dr. Jarvis moved that the permanent officers of the Executive Committee, when elected, be the permanent officers of the bureau. Carried.

On motion the Executive Committee was instructed to adopt, before the 18th inst., a set of by-laws, sufficient copies to be printed to supply all members, the by-laws to provide for the calling of special or general meetings, a majority of the executive board to have power to call a meeting.

North, South, East or West.

We have never been able to buy one for less. This fact should be considered by the would-be owner of an orange grove. A good thing costs money, and is always the cheapest in the end. We are in receipt of dozens of letters inquiring why we are asking $120 per acre for Alessandro Land, while there are thousands of acres advertised in full length columns of as many newspapers at less than half the price.

Ours are Gold Dollars.

No prudent man will invest his money in any of these wildcat schemes, promising great returns for a small outlay; they are very enticing to the weary toiler on the stony farms of the East, looks well on paper, but never materialize; you put your money in but never get it back.

If you are coming to Southern California for health, profit, of both, you want to invest your money where there is not the least possible chance of failure. That place is That never sell below par.

ALESSANDRO,

Which has everything in its favor: The most beautiful location; the finest climate in the world; the best soil; the best water right of any irrigation district in Southern California, and one of the strongest Companies back of it in the State, posed of men of unlimited means and business capacity, who have made a success of everything they have undertaken. Alessandro also owes its success not only to above, but largely to the character of the men who have come there to make it their future homes. A class of thrifty, intelligent, industrious men, who have already made their presence felt, and are living there today in moderate luxury, comfort and good health. With such a class of settlers already on the land and constantly arriving, we predict that

IN FOUR YEARS' TIME

Alessandro will be the Model City of Southern California.

He who invests his money today in Alessandro lands takes no chances and makes no mistakes. The price is still $120 per acre. Every newcomer, every new length of pipe, every dollar laid out in improvement, increases the value of every acre of the tract. While you sleep your land grows in value. People, "plenty of them," are rich today who bought land in Redlands four years ago, simply by the advance. He who buys Alessandro land at $120 per acre will reap the same reward and more for the advance will be more rapid and sure. FRESH LITERATURE. Capt. John G. Bourke. Third United States Cavalry—a long-time confidential and gallant staff officer of the late Maj. Gen. George Crook—has, under the title of 'On the Borders with Crook,' given to the world, through the Scribners a most interesting sixth of Scribners, a most interesting sketch of that distinguished officer's services in connection with the settlement of the many vexed Indian questions committed to his care on the then "borders," which are today the very centers of prosperity and a high order of civiliza-tion. Capt. Bourke gracefully interprosperity and a high order of civilization. Capt. Bourke gracefully introunces himself to his readers from the parade ground of old Fort Grant, Arizona, to which post he went for duty soon after his graduating from West Point, he having entered the Academy (after four year's service as a soldier in the War of the Rebellion.) in the spring of 1870 as a second lieutenant of "F" troop of the Third Cavalry. His pen-pictures of Southern Arizona and New Mexico are no less interesting than instructive.
His accounts of routine life of a young officer 1500 miles from "God's country" demonstrated his fitness for the htgher duties to which he was called by his illustrious chief. His careful inventory of the country's products; his mashis illustrious chief. His careful inventory of the country's products; his mastery of all its wonderful history, and that of the many wild tribes inhabiting it, with their religious rites and traditions, shows rare diligence and research. A careful statement of the flora and graphic pictures of the wonderful "architecture of the Gila." its cañons and kindred mountains, makes "mighty interesting reading," not only to the student but to general readers of all ages and classes. Seldom have we read a book of recent print more so. The life of the American officer on frontier service is here given from notes The life of the American officer on frontier service is here given from notes taken daily, and set forth in a straightforward way; the many demands upon their courage, judgment, endurance and patriotism are timely reminders of how faithful to every duty this class of public servants have ever been—a fact of which our people, so directly the beneficiaries, are apt to be too forgetful. He introduces Gen. Crook from the old town of Tucson, at which point the town of Tucson, at which point the General arrived in the summer of 1871, to assume command of the Department of Arizona. The notable personages met there will call to mind a list of names that have, in their way, made the Southwest famous for its original characters, characters given no less to the Southwest famous for its original characters; characters given no less to daring and enterprise than to humor. Many will recognize stories often heard by word of mouth and now read for the first time in print. The atrocious wick-edness of the Apaches he paints in plain words: but the many wrongs heaped upon them by the professional philanthropist and Indian agents and their pals, the contractors, makes the blood of honest folk curdle with shame. The "loyal Apaches" were true and faithful to Crook to a man, and it must be clear "loyal Apaches" were true and faithful to Crook to a man, and it must be clear to the student of his work among them that, had his wise methods been followed by the Indian Bureau, the Apaches of today would be at least as wealthy as their more advanced brothers, the Navajoes, who are anchored to a condition of permanent peace by their immense herds of sheep and horses. The cattle he induced the Government of them, with which to start herds to give them, with which to start herds and to help them help themselves, were long since killed to avert starvation of their women and children. The Apache, with his kindness to his own young, his love of nature, his powers of endurance, his aptness in tracking either man or beast across deserts and mountains, his cunning flendishness when in pursuit or possession of an enemy, his signals, his strategy, his sacred rites and "medicine. possession of an enemy, his signals, his strategy, his sacred rites and "medicine men," his brutality to captives, are all pages of rare interest. Equally so are those telling of the thoughtfulness, endurance, patience and farsighted wisdom of the gallant, faithful and modest Crook, and those who had the rare good fortune to be of his command. In all of his marches across sandy, sunburnt deserts, over snow-covered mountains, in his many battles with the flery and determined Apache, and later with the ambitious Sioux, the reader is led in lively interest, covering in all a period ambitious Sioux, the reader is led in lively interest, covering in all a period of nearly twenty years of active service. In July, 1875, when peace had been restored in the Southwest and all the Arizona and New Mexican tribes were on their reservations, Gen. Crook left Prescott for his new station at Omaha (via Los Angeles.) The reader is struck with the difference of travel in that not at all distant day, and thisnow scarcely more than a night's ride; then "eleven days under the most favorable circumstances." It is clearly shown by Capt. Bourke that the General advanced the Bourke that the General advanced the settlement of the new States of that section many, many years. of weeks without mail or other information from the outside world, a courier brings Gen. Crook the grateful information that Gen. Hayes, an old comrade, had been nominated for the President of idency. On the receipt of this news Gen. Crook remarked of the now illus-trious ex-President: "As brave a man as ever wore shoulder-straps." In August of 1876 Crook made junc-tion with the forces of Gen. In August of 1876 Crook made junction with the forces of Gen. Terry, operating in the north country. Of this meeting Capt. Bourke says: "Terry was one of the most charming and affable of men; his general air was that of the scholar no less than the soldier. His figure was tall and commanding, his face gentle vet determined; his kindly blue eyes indicated good nature; his complexion, bronzed by wind and rain and sun to the color of an old sheepskin-covered Bible, gave him a decidedly martial appearance. He won his way to all hearts by unaffectedness and affability. In his manner he was the an-

All the way through the writer leaves the imprint of his rare ability. His wit is as quick and brilliant as that of Bret Harte himself, and his descriptive powers second only to those of Lew Wallace. That one so able, and of such generous, long and valuable services as Capt. Bourke should be allowed to remain in the possession of captain's commission only is difficult to understand. We predict that the readers of his charming book will, with one accord, join The Times (which speaks from personal information and with a personal interest in the subject of Capt. Bourke's book) in petitioning the President for his well-earned and too long delayed promotion.

THE ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITTANICA. A Dictionary of Arts, Sciences and General Literature. The R. S. Peale reprint. With new maps and original American articles by eminent writers Vol XVII. (Chicago: R. S. Peale & Co. Los Angeles: Stoll & Thayer.)

R S. Feale & Co. Los Angeles: Stoll & Thayer.)

With the coming of every month a fresh volume of this ninth edition of the greatest of all encyclopædias is given to the American public. Take into consideration the low price at which it is sold—one-half of its former cost—the completeness of the work its typographical excellence, and the durableness of its binding, and the work may well be considered a marvel of achievement even in this bookmaking age. Its price places it within the reach of every intelligent family in the community, and Stoll & Thayer have showed their public spirit in securing the right to handle this new edition and place it hpon the market in this community. It is truly multum in parvo, containing, as it does, an epitome of all knowledge which the research and enlightment of the age commands. It should have a place in every library of the community, both public and private.

lightment of the age commands. It should have a place in every library of the community, both public and private. It will save the student a vast amount of tedious research, for it is at home upon every topic. It may be paid for outright or in monthly installments. MAUD HUMPHREY'S MOTHER GOOSE. (New York: Frederic A. Stokes & Co. Stoll & Thayer, Los Angeles.)

The world of little people will never tire of dear old Mother Goose, who has delighted the hearts of American children for generations. This little volume of Maud Humphrey's is the original Mother Goose text unchanged, but it is set to such dainty and quaint illustrations that it is like a new creation, and the juveniles of today will feel that Christmas brings them nothing more altogether satisfying and delightful than this same quaint little volume of Mother Goose.

BURNS PICTURES. By R. A. Bell and H. M. PAGET. (New York; C. P. Dutton Com-pany. Stoll & Thayer, Los Angeles.) A dainty little brochure of twelve pages is this pretty gift for the holiday time. Very just and pleasing is the re-view of Robert Burns which these few pages hold, and like the soul of his poems do the illustrations look out from each page. Robert Burns—the poet of the people—the singer of the affections! Time slips backward as we turn these illustrated pages and we

GOOD FORM—Weddings, Formal and Informal, with remarks upon engagements. By the author of "Cards, Their Significance and Proper Uses," "Dinners," etc. (New York: Frederick A. Stokes Company. Stoll & Thayer, Los Angeles.)

This is a very helpful and suggestive little work, not only to the well-trained society woman, but to those just entering the charmed circle of the "Four Hundred," and who desire perfect familiarity with its code and the highest standards of ceremony and form. It is pleasantly written and it looks at fashionable life from a sensible standpoint.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Complaint of a Sufferer.

Los Angeles, Dec. 8, 1891.—[To the Editor of The Times.] Some time ago an editorial paragraph appeared in The Times relative to dimentifies in the way of strangers or new residents in obtaining employment by reason of the inadequacy of private employment agencies, and suggesting, if I forget not, the advisability of establishing a public bureau under sanction of law, etc.

My attention at the time was struck with the pertinency of the editorial on the subject. Sad experience since now induces me to bring the matter again to public notice as one doubtiess of many other fellow-shifterers at the hands of the now existing employment agencies.

More than six months ago I, with my little family of three, became residents of your beautiful city, not allured with boom articles nor with the expectation of becoming wealthy, but with the hope of making an bonest living and to benefit the health of my family, somewhat impaired by a more rigorous climate. Though a stranger I had testimonials that would satisfy the most cautious and critical.

I naturally applied to one of the leading rigorous climate. Though a stranger I mad testimonials that would satisfy the most cautious and critical.

I naturally applied to one of the leading and oldest employment agencies, paid the necessary registry fees, etc., and quietly awaited a summons for the position sought. Frequent visits to the agency were made, but even after seeing the very position, wanted often advertized as being open (probably to allure other victims) I remain as yet unemployed. And now through misfortune, sickness and accident my means are exhausted and my family on the verge of suffering. Friends I have—many of them far off—but I dislike to apply for relief. Necessity, however, caused me to apply to a gentieman here formally known in another State for a small loan, and he, though known to be worth at least $250.000, unblushingly stated he did not have the pittiful sum asked.

Is there any remedy, is there any hope for a person situated as I am? It would make this communication too long to attempt criticism of the employment agency business, and it is not my desire to abuse them, perhaps they do some good after all. Should my object in calling attention to the necessity of better methods resul in any good, then the object will have been attained. Respectfully, any good, then the object will have been attained.

Respectfully.

The Emperor of Brazil and Kossuth.

Los Angeles, Dec. 7.—[To the Editor of The Tinks.] In your issue of the 7th. inst. there is the republication of a statement, now going through the American press, which is altogether incorrect, in regard to Gen. Kossuth, the former dictator of Hungary. A portion of that statement is as follows: "Now he [Kossuth] is old and feeble, almost blind, and in abject poverty." Only a few months before I came to Los Angeles, last year, I visited Kossuth in his own home, at Turin, in Northern tally. I have known Kossuth for a number of years, have seen him many times in Naples and Turin, and know not only his circumstances, but also is relatives and friends, and I can assure you that the stor of his "abject poverty" is altogether erroneous. He occupies, with his sister, a fine residence in one of the best parts of town. One of his sons resides in Na les, and at a large salary is the manager of the great network of railiways known as the "Mediterranean," a position somewhat like Chauncey Depew's in the New York Central. Another son is an eminent official in Italy, drawing a good salary. And Kossuth himself lives indupendent even of aid which he might receive from his sons.

That he is "old" is true, and a man generally is when he is going on 90. "Feeble" he may be, but when I last visited him he took his "constitutional" every day, and a good long one it was. "Almost blind," he was not twenty-four months ago, when I last saw him, and I have not since heard that his eyesight had failed him and I hear from Italy every week. In his own study at Turin, two years ago, he daily worked about isk hours at his manuscripts and read with the greatest regularity the Italian dailies and other newspapers, the type of which is not the clearest—the link is of the "smudgiest" kind. In my intercouse with him I have found him cheery and especially communicative with Americans, and he rejoices that although his plans for Hungary,

J. C. F.

[Mr. Fletcher calls attention in his letter to two typographical errors in his sketch of Dom Pedro, which require correction in order to do justice to the sense of those parts in which the errors occurred. The words "Monroe's administration," should have read Filimore's administration, and the word "remembered," in speaking of Dom Pedro's memory, should have been received.—ED.]

Col. E. D. Baker.

Ventura (Cal.,) Dec. 4, 1891.—[To the Editor of The Times.] In your issue of December 1 you speak of Col. E. D. Baker, the soldier, statesman and scholar. It is, indeed a lamentable fact that great and honored men like this gallant soldier must, like all the earth, pass unto the great unknown. This writer was one of the first to enlist under Col. Baker in the 'California Hundred.'' I was with him when he was killed at Balls Bluff, and heard him speak his last sentence. I am an 'old man now, but heartily indorse what The Times and Mr. Edward B. Jerome has had to say in honor of this soldier. No more fitting tribute can be paid to this hero of the past than erecting a monument in his honor. Every comrade under him respected every word or command he ever gave.

There seemed to be something in every move Col. Baker made, and every word he ever spoke, that inspired confidence of all around him. May his monument be erected and his name live forever is the sincere wish of A. J. Harrington.

BUSINESS.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8, 1891.
A special dispatch from New York reports the raisin market as flat. Another dispatch gives the following review of the situation from the Commercial Bulletin of that city:
"The condition of the market for California raisins is at it." The condition of the market for California raisins is still a subject of more than ordin ary concern in both commission and jobbing circles. Affairs don't look as promising a they did three or four days ago. Some of the largest holders have marked the figures down very closely to panic prices, but their efforts to sell are not suggestive of demor-alization, and offerings from quarters where the pressure was greatest last week are momentarily expected. Three Crown stock in sacks was reported sold as low as 5 cents a pound, but the fact has transpired that while up to the regulation transpired that while up to the regulation Three Crown in size the goods were slightly out of condition. Sound stock went in fair sized parcels at 6 cents for 4-crown, 5½ cents for 3-crown and 4½ cents for 2-crown. Boxed fruit, fully up to the respective standards of quality, sold at $1.25 for 2-crown loose, $1.20 for second quality layers and $1.50 for first quality layers. These were about the average prices."

There were few changes in the local markets today, quotations being generally the same as on Monday,

A New York special says that lima beans to average by the steemer Mineola from California, are selling at $1.65.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The stock market was active today the Gould shares being the only weak points. After a quiet open ing the pressure continued upon Missouri Pacific and Northern Pacific common and Pacine and northern Pacine common and preferred, the former losing 1 per cent. Then Western Union became weak, the rest of the stocks making slight advances. The close was active and stronger at the highest prices of the day.

Government bonds were firm.
